

Please add the following Abstract:

ABSTRACT

A mobile telephone handset (MS1) capable of sending and receiving text message. The handset contains disambiguation software (20) operable to disambiguate inputted text with reference to a dictionary (19) stored in memory (10). When receiving new text messages, the dictionary is updated with words contained in the message.